Particular emphasis is on the more common forms of premalignant and malignant lesions, including actinic keratosis, Bowen disease, basal cell carcinoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and melanoma and its subtypes. Great book, I highly recommend it !

It tells you how to make the operations, some physiology about skin cancer and a lot of pictures but there is no explanation on pictures that would clarify why exactly that picture classifies as certain type of skin cancer. You have to make your own theory. I wished author put two comparable pictures together and make differential diagnosis side by side.

Outstanding material, concise and to the point, a wealth of knowledge. very helpful for primary care doctors and well as all other specialties in providing a fairly in-depth review of the different types of skin cancer and their management.
