Tomie dePaola was born in Meriden, Connecticut, in 1934 to a family of Irish and Italian background. By the time he could hold a pencil, he knew what his life's work would be. His determination to create books for children led to a BFA from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York, and an MFA from the California College of Arts & Crafts in Oakland, California. It drove him through the years of teaching, designing greeting cards and stage sets, and painting church murals until 1965, when he illustrated his first children's book, Sound, by Lisa Miller for Coward-McCann. Eventually, freed of other obligations, he plunged full time into both writing and illustrating children's books. He names Fra Angelico and Giotto, Georges Rouault, and Ben Shahn as major influences on his work, but he soon found his own unique style. His particular way with color, line, detail, and design have earned him many of the most prestigious awards in his field, among them a Caldecott Honor Award for Strega Nona, the Smithsonian Medal from the Smithsonian Institution, the Kerlan Award from the University of Minnesota for his "singular attainment in children's literature," the Catholic Library Association's Regina Medal for his "continued distinguished contribution," and the University of Southern Mississippi Medallion. He was also the 1990 United States nominee for the Hans Christian Andersen Medal for illustration. Tomie dePaola has published almost 200 children's books in fifteen different countries. He remains one of the most popular creators of books for children, receiving more than 100,000 fan letters each year. Tomie lives in an interesting house in New Hampshire with his four dogs. Love this book! Happy memories of this book being read to me as a child. Unfortunately, it came dented up on the corners which was a disappointment.

A wonderful childhood memory. A beautiful tale that I've continued to share.

A classic story that any child growing up in Texas should read.

As a native Texan, this story is near and dear to my heart. However, the youngest children will probably not understand the meaning of the story and there are adult themes (famine, death, sacrifice, etc.) so be ready to discuss with your kids. Love the book - my kids are 6 and 8 and it's great for them.

The book is great and it was in very good condition. I loved the customer service too! Thank you.

I had read this book before. I love the legend and my youngest granddaughter wants to hear it everyone she comes to visit. So now we have a copy at both houses.

I adore Tomie dePaola and this one is gorgeous! Being from Texas, it was nice to read the legend!

Found lovely handmade bluebonnet ornaments at the Lady Bird Johnson Wildflower Center for our Grands. and knew the exact books from Tomie dePaola to accompany them. Beautifully written and illustrated, these books connect children to a heritage more eloquent and mindful than flash-in-the-pan action figures and dolls.
