Taken from Chapter 8: Government services G is for government services. Government services provide communities with the buildings and help they need. Schools, hospitals, libraries, buses, garbage collection, and road repair are all government services. Law enforcement and firefighting are other important services. The money people pay in taxes helps operate the government services in a community.

I used this book to help teach a Social Studies Alive! unit in 2nd grade. The book reinforced the curriculum about What is a Community?

This book has a lot of information. I used it to teach third graders about a community and what is in a community. They liked the pictures and gained a lot of information from the reading. There is a lot of text on each page so this book would be not good for a read-aloud. If you split the book into sections by day then you could read each page aloud. Overall, it is a book I would recommend!
