It already saved me by reminding me to bring deodorant! I keep deod in a different place than my other toiletries, so the list helped me to remember. There could be different lists for men vs women, or college students vs professionals, work vs pleasure trips.

Too cute - nice to have and keep in the suitcase for the next trip. NOW - if I could have just kept the filled out one in the suitcase so that I would have been reminded to pack the jacket that I left hanging in hallway (and forgot to pack for the trip home).

Absolutely love this. Made packing for my big business trip so convenient. My sister who is anti anything organization related even asked to use it to pack for her extended trip and came back asking where to buy it. Will definitely buy again when I run out.

This is a wonderful list for anyone who feels they might miss something while packing. For me, it's a helpful reminder to check upcoming weather when traveling cross-country for work, as well as a broad-spectrum list of personal items you might need when traveling for a day or two.

I seen this pad at World Market and just had to have it...for a lower price! had the best deal and I am very pleased. I kind of wish it was magnetic, but not an issue.Can't wait to use it for my next trip. This is a great purchase for the organized and disorganized traveler! Looks like the picture. Get it!

Cute notepad to help remember things to pack, but unfortunately it's made more for a traveller who flys often or travels internationally. Wish I'd known this before I bought it. It's not practical for travelling just inside the US.

This is a really good idea for when you are going on vacation it shows you a list of things you might want to take on vacation and you can tick it at the side so you know you have it ready for when you are going away

I've had a number of these products over the years and find them to be of immense help in planning what I'm taking along, actually packing the planned items, & making sure I return home with them. This is an updated version & it's still extremely useful, whether going on an extended weekend or a longer length business or vacation trip. I've also gifted them to friends who rave about their usefulness.
