Randy and Hideko Abernethy were married in French Polynesia in 2005 and fell in love with tropical islands. Well, more in love actually. By 2006 they had sold their business and moved aboard a sailboat. Shortly thereafter they left Fort Lauderdale Florida to circumnavigate the globe. Randy and Hideko both earned Yachtmaster ratings in their preparations for the voyage and Randy has since earned a 200 ton Masters license and become a Scuba Diving instructor. Their journey has taken them throughout the Caribbean and across the Pacific Ocean. After three years at sea they have lingered in several places but nowhere so long as Palau. Exploring her waters was a pleasure for the authors and they are happy to be able to share the beauty of Palau with others through this book.

Only Guide that's useful for yachties Well researched All info is relevant as of Jan 2016

Great book. We just returned from Palau and it was very helpful even a years dated.

Don't go to Palau with out this book. It's the only book of it's kind that deals with what is available on the island. We sailed in on our boat and spent three weeks there seeing the sights and anchorages of the island. Couldn't do it with out this book.

This is a great book for exploring Palau. Not only is it full of advice for people who arrive on their boats, but it's also great for land- based tourists. Lots of background info on Palau and it includes activities that other guidebooks don't mention. A good find and the photos are beautiful too!
