Customer Reviews

The pages were bigger than I expected! Thick and sturdy. Really well made. Definitely an awesome deal!! Highly recommend

Perhaps my G Grandson was a little young for a book but I couldn't help myself from buying him a book. In fact I bought several and this proved to be a winner despite his being a bit young for it. The board book part of it meant he couldn't tear pages. He can knock it around and look at pictures even if not reading. And despite his young age (8 months) he very quickly has learned to touch the furry and tactile spots and of course we just think he is brilliant. I think readers want their kids playing with books early and this one works!!! Soon we will be able to start animal recognition but for now it's a good book just for exposure to books.

My 1yr old loves touchy-feely books and animals so this one seemed perfect. Small, but thick book with sturdy pages and a squishy cover...so far it's held up well with the baby. She loves the different textures on the pages and we like that it's not your typical animal selections. Has rabbit, zebra, snail, tiger, monkey, and more with different textures for each and some slightly more interesting text, like how the tiger is licking his nose. It's a great way to practice animal noises, some of her favorites being "Ooh, ooh" for the monkey and growling for the lion. :)

The pictures are lovely but the "fur" is a bit strange. The fur on the bunnies on the cover is very different than the fur on the bunnies inside. The book does not have a furry kitten, only a faintly fuzzy yarn ball, which is odd. Odder still is the decision to include a snail slime trail, a starfish with some very faint bumps, and a goldfish with the same texture as the starfish.

My son is obsessed with touch and feel books. I love that he is learning to love books and he is only 13 months but he can "read" these books himself without me worrying about him ripping all of the pages up. I love them and purchased more already! They are such a great sensory learning tool for young children. Looking at books with mommy in photo**

This is one of baby's favorite books at Grandma's house. The rabbits on the front cover have soft tummies though not furry. Inside several of the animals have fur or soft sections, though not all. The kitten has a soft, flat ball of yarn. The puppy, monkey and rabbit inside the book have soft fur. The penguin has a soft but flat belly similar to the yarn ball. There is a tiger cub, zebra, elephant, butterfly fish, starfish, and snail which do not have fur or anything substantial to feel. Despite this, baby loves it. I would have preferred every page to have something he could feel but I'm happy he

My 16 month old doesn't sit still when we try to read to him. When we started to read this book he was distracted enough with the "touch and feel" that he sat still and let us read to him. Highly recommend!

The few pictures in this book are cute but it really only has a couple small "pat" areas for baby to feel. The other so called "pat" areas are really only a slightly raised area on pages. Pretty ridiculous actually. So if you want a true pat and feel book I'd definitely pick a different book. .
