The MindBody Workbook: A Thirty Day Program Of Insight And Awareness For People With Back Pain And Other Disorders

Synopsis

This Workbook offers the reader a thirty-day structured journal to identify and heal from psychological issues that may be causing back pain, neck pain, fibromyalgia, irritable bowel syndrome, tension headaches, RSI, TMJ, and other disorders. The author, Dr. David Schechter, a former student of Dr. John Sarno, has developed a Workbook that instructs and guides the reader through a process of insight and awareness to harness the mindbody connection. This workbook was a key element in a published study that demonstrated the effectiveness of this approach (Alternative Therapies, 2007).

I've been fascinated by the mindbody connection since before medical school. The seminal event of my medical education in this regard was my own cure from chronic, unexplained knee pain with the guidance of John Sarno, MD from NYU's Rusk Institute. After this personal success, I performed a follow-up study of his patients, under his auspices and determined that this approach proved successful in a remarkably high 77% of chronic back sufferers. As my career has progressed, I've developed my own program of treatment that includes an office consultation and educational seminar on this subject for my patients. I've developed a series of materials including audiotapes, article, video, and now this Workbook. I feel this Workbook offers the best opportunity for people suffering from mindbody disorders that I may not personally be able to treat. With the help of a local physician to exclude more serious disease, they should be able to benefit greatly from the thirty-day structured journal approach, on their own, as my own patients do in my office.

A thirty-day program of insight and awareness for back pain and other disorders.

Today I completed Dr. David Schechter's 30 day Mindbody workbook and consider myself cured of IBS/CIC, and hiatus hernia. In 45 years I've tried veganism, raw foods diets, juice fasting, herbal protocols, acupuncture, yoga, Pilates, meditation, psychotherapy, vigorous exercise, and also, just ignoring the problem believing it would go away if I stopped focusing on it and trying so hard. I make fermented foods, take probiotics, drink enough --not too much-- water, I drink lemon water and milk thistle for my liver, etcetera, etcetera. I've understood for several years, having read Sarno and experienced some relief, that I'm a classic TMS case. The Sarno approach gave me hope. But I couldn't feel "cured" until now. My awareness of my conditions has been a huge, looming ball that made me roll my eyes and think, Yeah, I'm such a case. I didn't know where to begin. The workbook gave me a way to begin, and support all the way through --it is very thorough, and well-designed to help you get actual results. I highly recommend it!

Mind/Body Medicine is all you need.

Really made a difference in reducing my pain plus raises awareness.. and explains the connections. Nice structure for the process.

Really helped me get in touch with some feelings and begin to think more about how I feel as opposed to focusing and obsessing with the pain.

I still haven't finished the workbook but I can see a change in my attitude toward my pain. I no longer feel like a victim. Thank you.

This book changed my life. Highly recommend for anyone who suffers - or anyone who loves someone who suffers - chronic physical conditions.

Learned a lot about my pain and emotions. The mind body is a strong connection. Follow the suggestions and you should feel better.

I have not tackled this workbook yet. But the accompanying paperback is very readable, informative, and quite helpful.
